Patron's Message

Since its inception, the Nishkam Healthcare Trust, which was first registered in 2012 has grown from strength to strength. In 2013, the Trust opened its Pharmacy as well as a Footcare and an Emotional Wellbeing Service. It was most pleasing to witness the expansion of our services with Nishkam Dental Care opening in 2017. This is especially important given the pressures on NHS-provided dental care. The Healthcare Trust has been active in partnering and collaborating with our neighbourhood stakeholders, which has meant that we have been able to expand the services that we offer.

These pioneering services have catered to vital health issues that our community faces and were established in line with The Kings' Fund vision for the future of community-based health services. The fund reached a broad consensus that in order to achieve high-quality, sustainable health and care services that can meet the changing needs of the population, there will need to be a radical shift in the focus of care from hospital to community health services.

At Nishkam, this has allowed for loving, respectful care to be delivered to some of our most at-risk members. To be able to discuss issues and concerns with highly qualified medical personnel who are volunteers, dedicated to serve, has already paved the way for a different type of healthcare service – one that is infused with faith-inspired values. Such an innovative approach necessarily means that there is a great deal of attention on prevention, healing and patient empowerment.

The Nishkam Healthcare Trust is a core part of the five centres of excellence that have been established to transform lives and empower people through faith-based values and ethos. Here, you will encounter highly qualified individuals who are dedicated to Nishkam values, providing a single facility multidisciplinary community healthcare centre, which focuses equally on both the patient's healthcare experience (values-based care) and on the delivery of high quality care (clinical excellence). It is imperative that we expand our services to include a GP Surgery. A GP surgery is essential to realising our Healthcare Trust vision since GPs are integral to providing excellent healthcare.

History of Guru Nanak Nishkam Sewak Jatha

Guru Nanak Nishkam Sewak Jatha (GNNSJ) is a faith-based charitable organisation that has its origins in a modest community in Kenya which congregated around our founding Saint, Sant Baba Puran Singh Ji of Kericho. It has grown from strength to strength on the back of a very deep commitment to community, and embodies the values of shared responsibility with the belief that there is considerable strength in unity.

Drawing on the ideals of Nishkam Sewa – selfless service, its members have embraced a Sikh faith based ethos that has at its core the principles of sarbat da bhala - may everyone prosper. In this way, the agenda of a 'shared society' is highly resonant with our ethos and values. It is about empowering the community that we live in and making a difference to our society. From an integrated health and social care perspective, it is about promoting the wellness of people through a culture of self-help and community participation.

GNNSJ is a truly global organisation deeply rooted in the local communities where it has been established. It has an especially strong following in East Africa, India, and the United Kingdom.

This brochure gives a short background to GNNSJ and the history of Handsworth, which underpin the reason why a healthcare centre specifically in this area is felt to be important. It also gives some insight into the healthcare geography in and around Handsworth.

India

Guru Nanak Nishkam Sewak Jatha has been blessed to have been bestowed the prestigious spiritual service of heritage conservation and restoration of the five Takhts in India (sacred pillars of authority in the Sikh Dharam). We have also been blessed with the service of six other Gurudwara conservation and restoration projects, as well as supporting other community infrastructure projects including schools, hospitals and bridges.

Africa

Our founding Saint, Sant Baba Puran Singh Ji, known affectionately as Babaji, emigrated from India to the small town of Kericho in Kenya in 1917.

In commemoration to Babaji's legacy of helping others in their local town, GNNSJ has undertaken many projects in Kericho over the years including:

- Construction of Africa's largest Gurudwara, which also conserves Babaji's modest workshop and family residence
- Construction of the Ministry offices and civic town works
- Annual medical camp

- Setting up the Sant Baba Puran Singh Ji Institute for Education
- £4 million pound investment in town infrastructure
- The Zero Hunger with Langar initiative in Malawi currently feeds up to 150,000 meals a month to children at places of education.

United Kingdom and Europe

The headquarters for GNNSJ are in Birmingham, although there is also a large congregational following in London and Leeds.

Within Birmingham, GNNSJ has sworn an allegiance to Handsworth and has been involved in regenerating the area since 1978. This began through prayer and spiritual regeneration, then later expanded to physical regeneration through its five centres for excellence: the Gurudwara, a community co-operation (Marg Sat Santokh), a civic centre, flagship schools, and now a healthcare centre.

Other UK-based projects include the development of the Museum of World Religions. The goal of these is to consider and test what it is that people have lived for, and lived by, in order to shape our modern character and society with universal and shared values.

Since 2000, GNNSJ has been actively involved in the interfaith movement for peace building, conflict resolution and nurturing good ethics and values. It has collaborated with the Parliament of World's Religions, Religions for Peace International, Goldin Institute, European Council of Religious Leaders, United Religions Initiative, European Council of Religious Leaders, King Abdullah's International Centre for Interfaith Dialogue, St Ethelburga's, and the Birmingham Faith Leaders Group.

Activism and improvement

George Dawson, a nonconformist preacher at the Church of the Saviour, taught a philosophy of community activism and improvement in Birmingham during the mid-19th century. He developed the concept of the Civic Gospel, and he called upon his congregation to help to "improve conditions in the town and the quality of life enjoyed by its citizens." His views influenced key members of not only the Church, but also the wider community of Victorian Birmingham. This included Joseph Chamberlain, who implemented the Civic Gospel philosophy into his work as the Mayor of Birmingham. "True Religion", Dawson believed, was "social, unitive, and brotherly in its spirit."

The Civic Gospel was about creating a community where people helped each other - a relationship which transcended social and political class.

History of GNNSJ in Handsworth

Mid-1900s

Like other ethnic minorities before them, Sikhs were essentially economic migrants who initially worked in the most menial jobs enduring harsh conditions. Far away from their home countries, estranged in a new land, often separated from their families, Sikhs worked long hours and exhibited an unparalleled work ethic. The industrial factories where they predominantly worked were also the places where they were inevitably alienated from, but gradually, families migrated to join the single Sikh men who had begun to establish themselves in the local community.

1970s

It was against this backdrop that Sant Baba Puran Singh Ji migrated to the UK, where they had a profound impact on UK Sikhs, and in particular on his successor, Bhai Sahib Norang Singh Ji and the Sikhs of Handsworth.

A photo of Sant Baba Puran Singh Ji and Sant Baba Norang Singh Ji accompanied a few eminent Sikh leaders

Bhai Sahib Norang Singh Ji had begun a process of spiritual transformation and worked unceasingly to bring disparate, disaffected Sikhs together through prayer meetings at various Gurudwaras in the area. Eventually, these Sikhs underwent a major spiritual regeneration.

Spiritual regeneration followed by physical regeneration

The catalyst for this remarkable change was eleven days of continuous prayer for the benefit of all humanity that was held in London (Mangat Hall, Southall). This was a transformative moment for many British Sikhs when a large contingent of them under the tutelage of Bhai Norang Singh Ji became baptised with the blessings of Babaji.

Initially, they continued to practice their faith with prayer meetings at different local Gurudwaras. As the community grew, it became evident that a more formal organisation and premises were required for the group.

With spiritual regeneration through prayer, an ethos of self-help, self-reliance and community participation, the Gurudwara on Soho Road was lovingly built, and the congregation began the process of physical regeneration in Handsworth.

A hundred families purchased ten properties on Soho Road, marking the start of GNNSJ's architectural enhancement of the Handsworth landscape.

Health inequalities in Handsworth

Handsworth has an ethnically diverse and relatively young population. Even with the existing healthcare provision, including many GP surgeries, pharmacies and dentists, Handsworth has poor health outcomes compared to the city and national average. The area is under-doctored, and there are clear barriers to accessing healthcare such as language, variation in health-seeking behaviours, transient population groups and long waiting times. The COVID-19 pandemic has widened this health inequality gap further.

Nishkam COVID-19 pandemic response

The Nishkam Group of Organisations have worked together to support the community through the COVID-19 pandemic by prioritising:

- genuine consideration for the most vulnerable and needy in society
- valuing and paying tribute to healthcare workers, teachers and all other key workers
- combatting the escalation in social problems such as unemployment, poverty, fraud and exploitation

The pandemic put a mirror to our human condition. By confronting us with our mortality, it pushed us to think more deeply about life's meaning and purpose.

*"We were very grateful to have received an unexpected phone call from the Nishkam Dental Care nurse because I was suffering with tooth pain and didn't know how to access help since we were self-isolating.
